All alike are humbled there ! The mighty grave Wraps lord and slave : Nor peide nor poverty tlares come Within that refuge house the tomb! Spirit with the drooping wing,

And the ever weeping eye.

Riches, glory, beauty, birth,
To thy kingdom all have gone.
Before thee stand The wond'rous band; Bards, heroes, sages, side by side, Who darkened nations when they died !

Earth has hosts; but thou canst show Many a million for her one; Through thy gates the mortal flow Has for countless years roll'd on : Back from the tomb No step has come ! There fix'd, till the last thunder's sound
